

Gov. Murphy Visits Nat. Guard Camp

GUARD MAKES IMPRESSIVE APPEARANCE ON REVIEW

The annual review of Michigan National Guard at camp Grayling held last Saturday was one of the best in the history of the camp. As usual, together with the officers of guard, Michigan's governor joins them for these inspections and Gov. Frank Murphy had occasion for the first time to see his home guard in review.

Gov. Murphy arrived Saturday forenoon and was met in Grayling by members of Gen. Pickert's staff officers. Upon reaching Camp Grayling they were escorted to the officers' club house where Gen. Pickert and others of his officers were awaiting him, as a salute of nineteen guns were fired from Division hill.

In the afternoon Gov. Murphy witnessed the annual review. In reply to the question if this was his first visit to Camp Grayling he replied in the affirmative and admitted that he had been missing something. He said he had visited all the army posts in the Philippines and many in the States and considered this the most beautiful in the country.

Among the regiments missing at the review were the air corps and the 182nd Field artillery of Detroit. The 106th cavalry regiment arrived Saturday morning and were ready to take their places in the review as usual.

In the evening a reception and ball was held for the Governor, sponsored by Brig. Gen. Pickert and the officers. Among those in the receiving line were former Brig. Generals Schouten and Campbell. Also Mayor Reading of Detroit and Mayor George Welsh of Grand Rapids.

Wednesday afternoon the annual horse show was presented and some wonderful horsemanship was demonstrated by some of the cavalry's expert riders.

The main body of the Guard will return to their home stations between July 22nd and 24th. The advance detachment of the 182nd Field Artillery of Detroit will arrive in camp July 28th and the main body on the 30th, and remain until Aug. 13 and 14th.

On July 29th the Cavalry regiment will leave camp for its home stations.

Sgt. Elmer Navarre of Howitzer Co., 125th Infantry, of Monroe had the honor of being selected for being the best informed and disciplined soldier in Camp Grayling this year. He was awarded the coveted Stuart medal. The presentation was made in the presence of Gov. Murphy and Gen. Pickert and his staff officers.

Gen. Drumm, of Chicago, commander of the 6th Corps area, arrived in camp Monday evening, to inspect the camp and Michigan National guard. This was his first visit at the camp.

TEA GIVEN FOR MRS. HEINRICH PICKERT

To compliment Mrs. Heinrich Pickert, of Detroit, a tea was given by a few of the officers' wives at the Officers' Club house Friday afternoon.

Mrs. John Bersey and Mrs. Leroy Pearson of Lansing received with Mrs. Pickert.

A large number of ladies called throughout the afternoon. The 126th Inf. band of Grand Rapids played on the lawn outside the club house during the tea which was greatly enjoyed by the ladies.

ROSCOMMON EDITOR GETS TICKET

Huge banks of dirt at the curb in front of the Avalanche office Tuesday night kept the water from the heavy downpour of rain that evening from running away and formed a pool nearly a foot deep at the curb.

Editor D. E. Matheson of Roscommon drove up in front of the office and as he had a load of about 200 pounds of linotype metal to unload, drove his car onto the sidewalk to avoid walking thru the water. Auto lights were left burning, for Mr. Matheson intended to leave for home immediately.

Instead, when newspaper men get together time passes altogether too quickly and an hour passed by. All this time his car stood two-thirds the way across the walk, which is a violation of the traffic ordinance. When the owner got into his car he found a traffic ordinance violation ticket on his steering wheel.

Of course it was a mistake in leaving the car there unnecessarily long, and Mr. Matheson was ready to acknowledge this accidental error. He was just as humiliated over his mistake as the officers were provoked, and he said that he was in full sympathy with the officers in trying to enforce such well intended traffic and parking regulations. He asked for no clemency by the officers but as this was his first offense and because this was a mistake, even though it was a careless one, he was let off with a reprimand to "never let it happen again."

Appreciation Day Being Planned

PLAN IN OPERATION SOON

Appreciation Day, sponsored by the Grayling Chamber of Commerce through the National Trade's Day Association will soon be in operation in Grayling. This plan being for the purpose of increasing business in this community and to enlarge the trade area over the past. The merits of the plan are well known and its success in other Michigan communities has proven greater than anticipated.

The Chamber of Commerce before deciding to sponsor this plan wrote letters to various communities that have had the plan in operation for many months and the replies in each case without exception, were very enthusiastic.

In these communities it has in each case increased sales, proven the means of getting old accounts paid in full, increased cash sales over credit sales and brought people in to trade from areas covering a forty-mile radius.

Another feature that has proven of benefit in each community, it has been the means of securing closer cooperation between the business elements. At this time over twenty merchants have signed up to come under this plan and those merchants that have not as yet signed up, should call the President of the Chamber of Commerce (phone 162), Mr. R. A. Wright, and get in as soon as possible that you may have the advantage of the plan from the start.

It is difficult for Mr. Wright to take time from his business to call on each merchant individually, so make it a point to call him at once. Space does not permit us to print all the details of this plan but Mr. Wright will be pleased to explain same.

WELL KNOWN SAGINAW CITIZEN DIES AT CLUB HOUSE

Friends of Mr. Arthur Bastian of Saginaw, were surprised and sorry to learn of his sudden death Saturday afternoon at his lodge at Whip-Poor-Will on the North side of the AuSable, near Kellogg.

Mr. Bastian was found dead at 4:30 p. m. in his room, having gone to lie down to rest. He had not been feeling well since that morning. Death was pronounced to have been caused by a heart attack.

Mr. Bastian was 54 years old and had been in the printing business in Saginaw for a long number of years. Each summer he and his family spent their leisure time at their lodge, and during the years made many friends along the river and in Grayling.

The remains were taken to Saginaw Sunday morning where funeral services and burial took place.

Kiwanis and Rotary Get Real Chummy

Here's an enthusiastic greeting between top men in two great clubs, Rotary International and Kiwanis International. Both organizations held their conventions in San Francisco at the same time. Left, Maurice Duperre, Rotary president, plants a continental kiss on the blushing S. Trafford Taylor, Kiwanis president.

Two Escaped Convicts Captured

There was considerable excitement around here Sunday when it was learned that two escaped convicts from Missouri State prison were in this region. An extensive man hunt got into progress and our local officers joined in with state police and other county officers, and northern Michigan was being combed in their effort to capture the men.

The convicts were reported to have escaped from the penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., about a week previous. Gray, a trusty who had served 15 months, was picked up in a Traverse City rooming house Sunday. Spencer, who had served eight years of a twenty-year term for robbery armed, was arrested as he was eating breakfast in the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bare, near Petoskey.

Both men were bound over to Circuit court for trial at Traverse City. They were charged with robbing a Traverse City filling station. Besides the state police, the police officers of Traverse City and Petoskey and ten sheriffs' departments assisted in the search and arrests. Sheriff Frank Bennett and Undersheriff Clyde Peterson were among the posse.

Guide School Being Promoted

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the opening of a Guide School in Grayling, which is a W.P.A. project. Projects of like nature have been opened in other Michigan communities and have proven to be worth while and have received enthusiastic comment from those selected to take the course, as well as from citizens in the communities in which these projects have been started.

The project is in charge of Mr. Dexter McSwain who has a national reputation along the lines and subjects to be taught in this school. Twenty men will be selected from Grayling and Crawford county to take this course and each man will be given $40.00 per month as wages while attending the school. At the completion of the course, which requires four months, another school will be started.

The course covers full instruction on rustic furniture building, overnight camp structures, fly-tying, bait making, rod building and repairing, compass and proper usage, stream control work, camp cooking, camp locating, gun repairing, living off the land when lost, American Red Cross first aid, life saving and other short subjects. At the completion work will be done on improving local camp sites which will be selected at a later date.

Robinson Dance Studio Gives Kiddie Kapers

A small but very appreciative audience witnessed a presentation by Robinson Dance studio of Traverse City, last evening at the school auditorium. This was sponsored by the Kiwanis club for the benefit of their boy scout fund.

It was a beautiful presentation, with beautiful costumes and attractive young children offering dance and vocal numbers, accomplishments made possible by the training they had received by Eddie Robinson and his assistants.

These youngsters appeared in solo and group dancing and novelty numbers and showed some very clever talent. Eighteen were Grayling children and they were assisted by six from Traverse City. They are as follow:

CRIBBING AT LAKE MARGARETHE FINISHED

The cribbing along the shore of Lake Margrethe has been completed and the crew is now grading the new fill, from the cribbing up to the Superintendent's dwelling. The house is on a bluff above the lake and the improvements show up well from the shore drive through the Military Reservation. The cribbing is to prevent bank erosion. It is 160 feet long, 4 feet wide and stands 4 feet above water-level. It contains 2610 lineal feet of eight inch logs, fitted into cribs. The cribs are filled with stone and gravel, to prevent damage when ice shifts. The logs were salvaged from the refuge deer-browse thinnings, last winter. It is expected that the new grade and lawn will be sodded, although no project for this has been received yet. Mr. Shadko, Project Superintendent for Camp Kalkaska, says that he has received approval of a project to construct a new cesspool for the Game Refuge headquarters and that work will start on it just as soon as materials can be secured.

three sections lying west of the Manistee river and adjoining our spring planting on the north. It is pine land originally logged over by the Deward Lumber Co., the East Jordan Lumber Co., and Tyndall & Jackson, and is now a part of the AuSable State Forest. It is to be scalped for fall planting. This will probably take two twenty-man crews all summer, doing the work preparatory to planting. In scalping, spots eighteen inches square are scraped clean of sod and weeds where each tree will be planted. The work cannot be done as fast as when furrows are plowed, but the method is better on rougher areas and where the tractor-plows would break down young trees and leave a fire danger.

Gen. Pickert, Staff Guests of Kiwanians

The presence of the National Guard in Grayling is always an occasion for a get-together with the Kiwanis club. As on former occasions Gen. Heinrich Pickert, and a number of his staff officers were guests at this week's meeting. This was held Monday noon instead of the usual Wednesday in order to make the time convenient for the officers.

It was a splendid gathering. A fine dinner at Shoppenagons Inn and pleasant friendships made it a most enjoyable occasion.

Lt. Col. Samuel Pepper, judge advocate of the Guard, suggested that as next year will be the 25th anniversary of the founding of Camp Grayling that some sort of jubilee be prepared in celebration of the occasion. This should feature the early history of the camp and some of those Grayling citizens and National Guardsmen who had a part in making it.

The meeting was presided over by President Cook. The guest speaker was Brig. Gen. Pickert who always makes a hit with Grayling audiences. He expressed himself as being heartily in favor of celebrating the camp's 25th anniversary and said he would appoint some of his officers to aid in carrying out a plan.

He spoke of the visits here of Gov. Murphy and of Mayor Reading of Detroit and others. Both these men were surprised and amazed about the camp. This was their first visit at the camp and they remarked that they did not know there was such a place before. It was necessary to go over the horizon in order to know what was beyond their superficial knowledge of Michigan's National Guard and of camp Grayling.

While in the early history National Guards showed them to be more-or-less social affairs, today they are a real strength in the nation's defense. As usual the meeting was very enjoyable and profitable in the gaining of many new acquaintances to add to Grayling's long list of fine friends among the guard.

Treatment of Snakebites

J. G., who is in charge of a summer camp for children, writes for emergency directions in the proper management of snake bites. A barefoot child of six stepped aside the road into the grass to allow a car to pass and was bitten by a rattlesnake having four rattles. No antivenom serum was available and the child had to be removed to a distant hospital for treatment.

The emergency care for snake bites has been given recently by the physicians of the United States Army, who see a large number of cases in the southern states. The chief hazard about snakes is walking or reaching for an object in the immediate vicinity of a snake without noticing its presence. A motion toward an unseen snake will cause a defensive reaction with the rapidity of lightning.

When bitten, apply a ligature or tourniquet a few inches above the bite. You may use a rubber garter, tubing, cord or shoestring.
Do not bind the limb so tightly that the pulse can not be felt in the wrist or atop the foot, but tightly enough to prevent venous blood from returning to the heart. The object of the tourni-quet is to delay absorption of the poison into the general circulation.

Release the tourniquet every 10 or 15 minutes for a minute at a time. If the bite has been inflicted by a large, poisonous snake, make a cross incision at each fang mark with a clean knife or razor blade. Make the cut one-quarter inch deep and one-half inch long. Then, if possible, apply suction over the cuts 20 minutes out of each hour for 15 hours. A breast pump or other suction apparatus may be used.

Every colony should have antivenom serum available and if

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to Frederic and Grayling friends for the many kindnesses and expressions of sympathy in our late bereavement.

Mrs. Anna Richards
and Family.

This is used, the incision and suction process may be omitted. The venom is slow acting and there will be time to read the directions carefully. Do not allow fear or agitation to make you overlook important points in preparing the syringe and making the injection.

In all cases, secure the best medical attention as soon as possible. The symptoms of snake bite poisoning are swelling, pain, weakness, giddiness, weak pulse,
hemorrhage, nausea and vomiting.

There are several very important "don'ts" in the emergency treatment of snake bite. Avoid alcoholic stimulants, running or becoming overheated—these serve to distribute the poison more rapidly through the body.
Do not use potassium permanganate, and do not cauterize the site of the bite with strong acids.
Finally, do not depend upon snake bite cures or home remedies, which commonly are used. It is quite important to identify the variety of snake, as well as to teach others to recognize the poisonous kinds in your vicinity.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Teachers, librarians, parents, leaders of boys' clubs and hundreds of thousands of boys, themselves, enthusiastically recommend THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine for all boys over twelve.

"It's more like a companion than a magazine," remarked one high school student. "It gives advice and entertainment on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. I made our school basketball team solely because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists, and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce, in THE AMERICAN BOY, just the sort of stories and articles boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on all newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. To subscribe, simply send your name, address and remittance direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich.

TO BE ENGINEER

Miss Zorra Kilgore, slender and brunette, is the only girl majoring in geology at the Texas College of Mines. She tramps five hours a day through the rocky hills around El Paso, does her share of the heavy work and likes it. "I don't know how I got the idea, but I do know I want to be a mining engineer. I like the outdoors," she says.

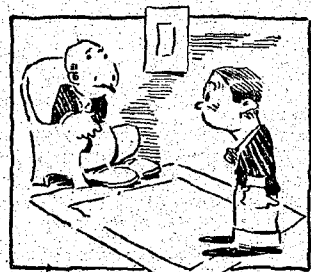

The "Mona Lisa" Stolen
In August, 1911, the "Mona Lisa" was stolen from the Louvre. Two years later the painting was discovered in Florence, Italy.

ON THE FIRING LINE

"I've attended this reception simply to measure swords with that hateful woman!"
"I see she is striped for the fray."

WITH WINNING WAYS

Old Moneybags—Want to marry Grace, do you? Think I'll make a nice, generous father-in-law, huh?
Young Nodough—I'll confess you don't look promising right now, but I intend to devote considerable time to training you in that direction.

HIS FINISH

"Sally, if that young man of yours gets too gay with you, squelch him at once."
"All right, mother, I'll sit on him."

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

He—If we can't agree, we'll divide the house. You take one side and I the other. Take your choice.
She—Oh, I'll take the inside.

ANSWER THAT ONE

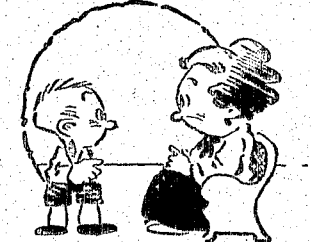

"When I wear my shoes out I always throw them away."
"How do you walk back home?"

SOMETHING COOKING UP

Mr. Hiram Offun—Do you realize our cook has been with us a week?
Mrs. Hiram Offun—I was thinking of that myself. I wonder what trick she's planning to play on us.

WHERE THEY GROW

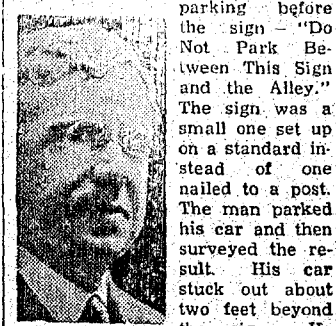

"Ma, where do you find the flowers of language?"
"Between the leaves of books, my son."

LANDMARKS

By

LEONARD A. BARRETT

A man drew up in a machine and looked at the scanty space left for parking before the sign—"Do Not Park Between This Sign and the Alley."

The sign was a small one set up on a standard instead of one nailed to a post. The man parked his car and then surveyed the result. His car stuck out about two feet beyond the sign. He looked up the street and down the street, then he picked up the sign and moved it two feet nearer the alley than it had been before. Perhaps the driver of the car escaped arrest for moving the sign, but that did not exclude him from responsibility for his act. Suppose everyone decided to place a sign just where he wanted it. The sign—Dump Rubbish Here—might be placed in your front yard. The sign—Dancing Academy—might be placed on the door of a cathedral, or the sign, Smallpox, be transferred from a neighbor's door to your own. What a confusion would result from such tactics!

We see many landmarks which indicate there is such a thing as order in this world. Customs change, but standards are ideals that have been marked as sacred by generations that have gone before.

Today, the world is sadly in need of these time-tested landmarks that will teach us how to steer and where to park.

In the book of Proverbs, the wise men of long ago wrote, "Remove not the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set." Many of the standards set up as guide posts in our present age are violently in contradiction to those of only a few generations past. The majority of those older in years who read this column, began their careers by adopting a philosophy of thrift. A debt, particularly a mortgage, was a thing abhorrent and greatly to be feared. This old landmark of "pay as you go and save a little every year" seems to have been replaced by a spirit of spending, buying on the installment plan, mortgaging the future,—in short, a pump-priming process as a remedy for the return of prosperity. Our fathers practiced thrift as the basis of security; we spend that we may be free from want. Our fathers believed in the sanctity of law. The flagrant violation of law today is a serious menace in our corporate life. Even the penalty of hanging does not eliminate kidnapping, nor a term at Leavenworth prevent crimes in the field of high finance in which many innocent victims suffer. Our fathers believed in reverence of personality. Today, many advocate the principle that a man is entitled to what he can pay for, regardless of the element of motive. Our fathers wrote the Constitution in letters stained with the blood of sacrificial patriotism; today, not a small number of persons who believe themselves patriotic, would scrap that Constitution. Our fathers set up the standard of liberty, and today, democracy is being weighed in the balance.

The question seems to be, Will the world be better off under the influence of some of these changed standards? Time alone will tell. It might be profitable to remember that we can go forward only so far as we go backward; that the piston rod of an engine is equidistant from its center, as it plunges forward and backward. There may be nothing new under the sun, and often that which has been forgot is the fundamental truth upon which newer and better structures are made. The Twentieth century would do well to consider the message of a wise man of old who said, "Remove not the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set."

One of the pleasant things in life is when a boyhood chum drops in on you, unexpectedly. Frank Baker wasn't very old when he moved next door to our home in Hastings, Mich., and from our first school days we did very few things apart until we were out of school. After not having seen one another for more than 30 years, it was a happy surprise to find him at the door early Monday morning. With him were his wife and daughter and the latter's husband from Battle Creek. It was indeed a happy reunion and there was plenty to talk about. They were enroute to the Soo and would return to Hastings by way of Wisconsin.

Lansing—Homer Martin's accusations of communistic influence in the ranks of the United Automobile Workers, second largest C.I.O. group, for an ironic anti-climax to the sit-down epidemic of just one year ago.

It forms a fascinating chapter in Michigan labor history.

To the student of history, the pendulum is swinging back. In seizing private property and in defying constitutional law and order, the C.I.O. went too far. Instead of benefitting the cause of labor, radical leadership in the U.A.W. injured it.

Martin's purge is tactful admission that Governor Murphy was right when he declared in a post-strike statement that communistic influences were to blame for labor's misdirected efforts at automobile factories. It recalls the overnight rise of the Lansing Law and Order league, headed by Dwight Rich, school superintendent and cool-headed Legionnaire, who inspired public opinion to demand law observance.

Rapid Growth

Yet, a glance at the phenomenal growth of Michigan's industrial life will convince you that a lack of labor trouble would be a miracle.

In 1910 the manufacturing plants of the state employed 352,14 persons, quite a good-sized army of workers. This compares favorably with the 1880 total of only 192,241.

After 1910 came the introduction of mass production methods, the so-called assembly line, and the constant lowering of consumer prices while the product was ever improved through scientific research. The next two decades saw the development of the "American plan" which became world-famous and induced commissions from all parts of the world to visit Michigan's automobile plants in quest of the secret of our industrial efficiency.

Bruce Barton, advertising authority, has said that the "American system" comprised research, mass production, and low prices.

Certainly living standards for consumer and employee alike were raised as prices went down, while the worker gained doubly through shortening of working hours and lifting of the wage level.

By 1930 Michigan industrial plants employed 786,031 persons. Of this number, about one-half, or 342,000 by 1935 worked in automobile factories.

Management Problem
With the sudden spurt in payrolls, whereby tens of thousands of workers were put to work, industrialists began to realize, belatedly at first, that they were dealing not only with iron and wood and other inarticulate things, but with human beings who, being human, did not always grasp the fundamentals of economics.

In the judgment of Walter Lippman, columnist, the sit-down strikes demonstrated to General Motors corporation that the management of hundreds of thousands of workers in its 15 far-flung plants was no small responsibility. It called for constructive leadership in making our industrial democracy truly democratic.

Putting its finger on the worker's pulse, General Motors became convinced that the so-called "spy system," whereby private detectives are employed as workers, created more trouble than it prevented. The detectives were discharged.

Management thus is moving toward mutual confidence between the employer and his co-worker, the employee. It is trying to restore the old relationship of "good neighbor" which once existed in the small plant where the boss knew his fellow workers by their first names.

Unemployment

Candidates for office in the mining region of the Upper Peninsula will burst in oratorical denials, but federal surveys have convinced those in high command that thousands of unemployed persons there will have to go elsewhere to find work.

The Keweenaw peninsula, for example, contains entire communities of unemployed residents.

Copper mines there have gone to great depths, making it unprofitable to compete with mines here copper is found near the ground. Under auspices of the State of Michigan, geologists are now seeking to uncover new veins and to revive the languishing industry.

How entire communities can be transferred to other fields is a problem that staggers the imagination of social planners. It is one of the tragedies in Michigan.

Politicians shake their heads. Facts run counter to pride. The answer must come as most answers do—from the fortitude and ingenuity of the American people themselves.

Legion "Fascism"

American Legionnaires in Michigan as still laughing "up their sleeve" at the sensational report released to the National Education association by a research man at the Columbia Teachers' college to the effect that the Legion had gone "fascist."

Coming as it did just at the conclusion of a very successful "Wolverine Boys' State" at Michigan State College it prompted no end of merriment. The educator had charged that the war veterans were militarists. The citizenship school at the state college is a perfect answer, so Legionnaires believe, to this accusation.

Nearly 850 boys from all parts of Michigan were given a week's training in democratic government without so much as a glance at an army rifle or the sound of a military command. It was the antithesis of fascism. One of the Legionnaire workers, in fact, was invited to leave voluntarily when leaders found that he had imbibed privately on the side before bedtime. After all, the Legion is growing old.

Exposition Gates At Mt. Pleasant Will Open July 26

City Ready to Welcome Visitors. Varied Entertainment Programs for Big Six Day Event

With the official announcement that all available display space has been sold, arrangements were practically complete this week for the opening of the Michigan Petroleum Exposition at Mt. Pleasant Tuesday, July 26, and the Friendly City is busy preparing a greeting for one of the largest crowds ever to attend an exhibition on Island Park.

The show, which will continue six days through July 31, will open with the WLS barn dance troupe of 16 radio stars as the featured attraction and wind up Sunday night with a mammoth fireworks display showing the old and new methods of transportation, the covered wagon and the 1938 automobile and airplane, made in Michigan.

The Exposition will be one of the largest outdoor spectacles staged in Central Michigan and will have a variety of displays that will be of interest to everyone. Distinct from the Oil and Gas Exposition of the past three years, this year's big show is modeled entirely for the interest of the general public. Displays cover the entire range of home, transportation and recreational interest. In this respect it will be much like the old County Fairs of yesteryears, brought down to date.

The latest in farm machinery will be among the featured displays that will be of interest to farmers. In addition there will be exhibits of rural lighting equipment and other phases of rural electrification.

For the home builder there will be displays of the latest in building materials and modern developments in both gas and oil heating facilities.

The sportsman and motorist will be interested in the display of trailers, automobiles, motors and other lines of sporting equipment.

Adopting as its slogan, "Made in Michigan," the Exposition will feature no petroleum products other than those manufactured within the borders of the Wolverine state.

The refinery display showing the progress made in the refining of Michigan oil products will be one of the finest of its kind.

In entertainment there will be acts of vaudeville and a band concert every afternoon and evening. The rhythm of Jules Klyne and his orchestra will also be featured and Bonnie Gordon's Hollywood dancing stars will present a glamorous revue.

Wednesday will feature the "Show of Shows," on the giant outdoor stage, plus the water carnival which will be staged in the municipal swimming pool on the Exposition grounds. This will include fancy diving, swimming and life saving acts and races by the children. It will be climaxed by a performance by Captain John J. Pope, the Human Cork, whose body will not sink in fresh water. As a special feature Wednesday, the price of all the rides on the midway will be reduced to five cents for children attending the Exposition.

Thursday and Friday will usher in a complete change in the show on the stage, and Saturday will be ladies' day, featuring a forenoon program, Mrs. Edith Cliff Myers, world famous home economist, and her cooking school.

Sunday the show will include new acts on the stage and will wind up in the evening with the fireworks display of 14 numbers.

No admission to the Exposition will be charged and parking space will be available for all cars as 25 cents.

As an added attraction for Saturday evening visitors, at 9:30 at the close of the regular evening entertainment, a five-bout boxing program is being arranged. Orville Drouillard, Canadian lightweight champion, will head the bill. A suitable opponent for Drouillard is now being sought.

POTPOURRI

Early Pipe Organ

The "pipes of Pan," hollow reed tubes of different length on which music was produced by blowing across the top ends, were the forerunner of the pipe organ. They date back 500 B. C. Egypt developed, in 200 B. C., an organ which utilized water power for producing air pressure. The use of bellows for supplying the air came later in Constantinople.

PRESIDENT VETOES POLLUTION BILL

Declaring that the slate is now cleared for an effective pure streams bill in the next Congress since the President vetoed the emasculated shell of HR2711, Royal A. Wright, local president, stated today that the League has only begun to fight and that it will be ready with a new bill for control of water pollution on a national basis by watersheds when the next Congress convenes.

"After the Conferees, who had held the bill in committee since last August, struck out all the provisions that would make the bill operative including all enforcement provisions," said Mr. Wright, "the Isaak Walton League was forced to oppose it as being not only worthless but actually a bill that encouraged pollution by making the overt act of polluting a condition of eligibility for federal loans and grants for treatment plants. Its authorization of a million dollar annual appropriation to the Public Health Service for investigation and research without authority to put that information to good use in controlling pollution would have meant in effect a ten year breathing spell for polluters while the investigators piled up more unused reports."

"The Isaak Walton League recognizes the importance of scientific research, but only as a means to an end—correction of pollution—and it insists that further expenditures for research should be contingent on utilizing the great mass of material already available, which is sufficient to support at least five to ten years of an active pollution control program."

Failing to stop the bill in the hectic closing days of Congress, the League urged the President to veto it as a misleading subterfuge that would fail utterly in accomplishing any good purpose. In his Memorandum of Disapproval dated June 25 The President stated that the procedure of direct presentation, through the Secretary of the Treasury, of the recommendations of the Surgeon General for the authorization by Congress of specific projects to be carried out under the loan or grant-in-aid provisions of the bill, without any opportunity for review by the Chief Executive, was contrary to the fundamental concept of our budget system.

"The Isaak Walton League has consistently supported the principle that any pure streams legislation that be effective must carry enforcement provisions to insure that the recalcitrant minority of polluters go along with the program. The theory that pollution can be corrected by voluntary action on the part of polluters is entirely erroneous and indicative of a lack of understanding of human nature. It is silly to contend that pollution can or will be solved by voluntary action; if it could, we would have no pollution problem today."

"The public has become pure

"I Sleep a Bit Later Each Morning" since I installed my Hotpoint ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

"Used to get up with the chickens on Monday mornings to start the old water heater so Bess could wash."

"Other mornings, too, I'd have to roll out earlier than necessary to have hot water to shave with."

"But that's all done with now. There's plenty of hot water for everything and everybody, the minute anyone opens the faucet."

"Take a tip, Bill, and install an AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC WATER HEATER. The Electric Company's low water heating rate and the Automatic Water Heater's high efficiency make the cost of Instant Hot Water, mighty reasonable."

streams minded and demands relief from pollution," said Mr. Wright. "Those who have ignored this public demand to serve special interests which want no interference with their misuse of public waters for disposal of their untreated wastes, will find it more difficult to effectively oppose this demand in the next Congress because their position is now known. The League's anti-pollution program is just and right from every angle, and as such, it will eventually prevail."

TOY CAN TAKE IT

(From Ingham County News, Mason.)

One thing proved by Harry S. Toy in his Mason appearance Wednesday night is that he can take it. A delegation of Laning CIO boos attended the meeting and frequently interrupted the speaker. The great WPA Americanism program of softball also interfered with the speaking. A minority of players and spectators tried to break up the meeting so they could continue to play. Had the boos or the softball shouters been from this community Mason would need to apologize to Mr. Toy for the poor manners shown. But it was imported boos and Mr. Toy drove right ahead with his speech. In fact, the boos added weight to the Toy arguments that the Murphy regime has resulted in a breakdown of law and order in Michigan. Attendance at the Toy meeting was estimated at 800.

Scenic Week-end Trips at Low Cost—No. 7

Here are three interesting and picturesque spots within your state, any one of which will delight the week-end vacationist, and at least one of which may be reached by automobile at low cost. To determine what your gasoline and oil bill will be, follow the instructions given below the map at right.

Kalkaska and Crawford Counties —No. 1

Famous for their game and fish, and as year-round playgrounds, these two northern counties attract many summer vacationists who make headquarters in the hospitable towns of Kalkaska or Grayling, or in the modern resort colonies, and fish the waters of the Manistee, Boardman, Au Sable, and Rapid rivers, or in the many lakes which dot the region. See road map for best routes.

Benton Harbor and St. Joseph —No. 2

These two popular resort cities are proud of the five features which make them a mecca for the vacationist—beautiful flowers; broad, safe beaches; the picturesque sand dunes; splendid hotels, tourist lodges, and camp sites; and the luscious fruit for which Berrien County is famous. Take U.S. 12 or 31.

Lapeer County —No. 3

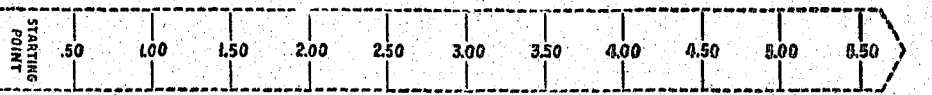

In this scenically beautiful county of 200 lakes, including popular Lake Nepessing, the vacationist will find good fishing, fine golf courses, and facilities for boating, swimming, and riding. Near Dryden is the Community Club and Forest Hall, maintained for the free use of the public for recreational purposes. Take Mich. 53 or 21.

How to Estimate Your Driving Costs

*Computed by Standard Oil Company (Ind.) ©

First cut out the scale along the dotted line and place it on the map with the "starting point" on the town nearest your home. Then, swing the scale around until its edge touches the place you wish to visit. From the figures on the scale you can determine within about 10% what the drive will cost you. To get the cost of a round trip simply double the figure. The amounts shown will be correct for the great majority of cars, although naturally the cost will be slightly more for the largest cars.
